The Challenge:

Stopping Bots from Eating Away Ad Budget

In 2021, user acquisition team lead Alex Kandel looked at the data and knew something wasn't right. The number of clicks and impressions remained the same, but the cost for each was climbing rapidly. Operating in a highly competitive environment, with an already heavy ad spend on Google, Bing, YouTube, and Facebook, the team could not afford the additional budget to keep conversions on the same level. Suspecting that bots are infecting their most heavily invested campaigns, driving costs up, they searched for a remedy.

Reallocating ad budget towards CHEQ's solution was a no-brainer for us. We knew it would drive our ad budget efficiency up, and it did - big time.
